

Broadcast Services

Bringing Order to SWIFT MT094s

SWIFT MT094 broadcasts are a rich source of useful and timely information that can help you better manage your payment processes. They deliver crucial information about mergers and closures, SSI and BIC changes and other operational messages. Broadcast Services deliver and maintain this key information in a manner that makes it much more usable and valuable.

What are Broadcast Services?

Broadcast Services are a pair of solutions that enable you to use SWIFT MT094 information more effectively.

- > BroadcastAlert™ takes SWIFT MT094 messages, formats them for easy readability and aggregates them into a single e-mail that's delivered to your inbox every day. Urgent SWIFT broadcasts are sent as separate e-mails to keep you up to date on critical information. BroadcastAlert offers a filter function so that you can choose to receive only the messages of interest to you. Administrator functionality is also available allowing recipients to be added and filters applied by a central authority.
- > BroadcastSearch™ provides a useful Internet-based archive of all SWIFT MT094 messages since January 2000 that is fully searchable by date, BIC, message number, keyword and more. The information presented in the archive features the same user-friendly format found in the BroadcastAlert solution so that you can easily find the key information contained within the broadcast.

Why do I need Broadcast Services?

While full of useful information, SWIFT MT094 broadcasts are often difficult to read and even more difficult to manage. In their native format, it's possible that critical data could be overlooked in these messages. Broadcast Services deliver this information in a format that's easy to understand and provide an archiving system that enables you to locate and refer back to the information most crucial to your business.

What Broadcast Services can do for you

Broadcast Services enable you to efficiently receive and, more importantly, act upon the operational change information delivered via SWIFT MT094s. Having this information delivered to your inbox daily and available online in a fully-searchable archive allows you to reduce the amount of time spent investigating payments and enhance your payment repair processes saving your business time and minimizing costs.

Broadcast Services bring order to SWIFT MT094s delivering the critical operational information you need in an easy-to-understand and manageable format to help improve your payment processes
